THE ART OF SEEING: NATURE SKETCHING AT THE HISTORIC WALKING BOX RANCH

The key to drawing is seeing. Join naturalist/artist Sharon K. Schafer for a nature sketching workshop that will both improve your drawing and observational skills as we explore the diverse natural history of the ancient Joshua tree forest at the historic Walking Box Ranch.

This eye opening program is designed for beginners or accomplished artists who love nature. As a participant you will be guided through a series of fun, non-threatening exercises designed to teach you to appreciate and observe the natural world around you in a new and different way.

By applying these new visual skills, you will learn to improve your drawing but most important of all, no matter what your age, you will at last, begin to learn to see. Bring a sketchbook, a couple of medium hardness pencils, water and your lunch. Transportation will be in a comfortable motor coach.

LOCATION: Departing from UNLV Paradise Campus back parking lot by motor coach

COST: $69

The Walking Box Ranch was built in 1931 by legendary silent film stars Rex Bell and Clara Bow.

The ranch was also known as a rural escape destination for the couple's famous Hollywood friends, which reportedly included Clark Gable, Carole Lombard, and Errol Flynn.
